

Want to host a Seven Days, Many Voices event? We're here for you!

CCAR has created a program for events at congregations, schools, libraries, and Jewish Community Centers that examines the Creation story through the fields of Midrash, biblical criticism, literature, theology, climate justice, human rights, history, science, and others.

Few stories are as compelling as the Creation story in the Book of Genesis. Seven Days, Many Voices: Insights into the Biblical Story of Creation, a CCAR Press publication, gives us a lens into a wide range of creative and inspiring thinking about Creation. View the table of contents here.

Here are ways we can work together:

- 1. Finding the right program for your community: Here at the CCAR, we know that each community is unique. Together we can think of the best program to fit your needs. We often suggest a panel discussion featuring 3-4 panelists and a moderator. We have also created a curriculum for the book, with tools for teaching adult classes inspired by the topics explored in the book.
- 2. Contacting prospective panelists: CCAR will suggest a list of panelists, contributors to Seven Days Many Voices, and other prominent figures in Jewish life, who reside in your area. You can also use local rabbis in your community and/or coordinate bringing in the editor of the book, Rabbi Benjamin David, and other influential leaders and thinkers.
- 3. Promoting the event: Let us help you spread the word! We can share visuals that we have of the book and related themes, and help you design promotional materials, including flyers, memes, and short videos. We will then post them on our website, social media pages, and share the information with CCAR members residing in your area.
- 4. Selling discounted books: CCAR Press will ship copies of Seven Days, Many Voices to you for a 40% discount, plus shipping. You can sell the books at the event as a fundraiser for the retail price and keep the difference.

So let's get started!

When we dare to investigate the intricacies of the Creation text, we come to see not only ourselves, but the imperatives with which we live as Jews.

- Rabbi Benjamin David, Editor
