

Contents

Foreword	xi
Rabbi Rachel Adler, PhD
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction	xv
I. He is gone for many hours
In the corner	3
My brother and I each separately	4
Safe has disappeared	6
He is gone for many hours	7
Seder story	8
I keep his secrets	9
Roger is the middle child	11
I was the youngest, the only girl	12
II. Was he there, lying in wait?
Sol by the pickle barrel	15
Mickey in the hallway	17
Sixth-grade boys	20
Prospects	22
The story of how I started smoking	23
What makes you feel safe?	25
III. Ein Gedi
Shabbos together	29
Stretching infinitely	30
Red enamel chairs	31
Our demons	32
At the bottom of a colorless world	34
When you come to it, you will not care	36
Coming of age	38

IV. Lillian
The straw, day one	41
The watch, day two	42
The waiting room, day two	43
What he knew, day two	44
The dance card	45
The day the marriage ended	47
The very end of day two	49
Day three becomes day four	50
V. Temporarily, unexpectedly
When they're gone, do people know that they're remembered?	53
His many foreign lands	54
Aunt Julie's final conversation	56
What courage looks like	57
You offer me full-throated laughter	58
The pain of your loss	60
VI. Not even on the way anywhere
The story of how we came to Western Mass	65
January 9, 2017	67
Icy listserv mornings	68
Working from home	69
What's your emergency?	70
VII. Then laughed and laughed, ageless
Solstice	73
Jane is explaining	74
A bell rings	75
Under a stone	77
Respite after darkness	79
Returning	80
Stay with me a little longer please	81
The world we have longed for since the very beginning	82
Glossary	85
Index of Titles	88
About the Author	90